

South Frankfort Neighborhood Association City Commission 2018 Candidates questionnaire (primary edition)

Rather than hold a public forum with such a large field of candidates we chose to ask the incumbents and their challengers ten questions. The questions are a modified version of those suggested by the Strong Towns organization (strongtowns.org)

SFNA will hold a public forum for candidates on 25 Oct 2018, in advance of the General Election.

Below are the unedited replies received from the candidates, as well as any points of contact they wished to share. The last page contains links to the video interviews conducted by Cable-10 for both Commission candidates and District 1 Magistrate Candidates.

Any errors in formatting or photo size are the responsibility of SFNA.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

Because most people do their business in downtown Frankfort before 5p.m., I wouldn't say that downtown is healthy. Because there are several vacant shops downtown, I wouldn't say that downtown is healthy. Because on any given Sunday, downtown Frankfort is a ghost town, I wouldn't say that downtown Frankfort is healthy. Because roads are designed to take people out of downtown easier than to bring them in, I wouldn't consider downtown Frankfort healthy and successful. The streets have to be designed to bring people in. There has to be stores or activities downtown to make people want to stay in downtown Frankfort. In order to attract these stores, tax incentives must be given to business that would attract and keep people downtown. Some zoning restrictions prevent some businesses from locating downtown and these restrictions must be changed to make this happen. There is a lack of residential facilities downtown to create another way to keep people downtown and to attract dollars. Currently, City Visions is gathering information from stakeholders all across Frankfort and across all walks of life. City Visions has shown a proven track record of developing cities to maximize space and attract and maintain visitors. Because of this, I would tentatively see what the plan is that they have to offer and then go back to constituents to further refine these plans and to make the best decisions for all involved.

Delvin Azofeifa

Does the City-County need a municipality owned or partnered conference center?

When I think about some of the more economically depressed areas of Frankfort in places such as South Frankfort and Holmes Street, it's hard for me to advocate for a new building for government officials to meet. I could be wrong, but I couldn't in all good consciousness have money to go toward building a new conference center when so many areas need much more attention. The people who would occupy this conference center are probably not living in depressed areas of town. There are places in Frankfort where these meetings could take place, such as at the New FPB building or at Kentucky State University. In the meantime, I believe that until we raise the standards of some of our more depressed areas, more affluent people need to learn what sacrifice is. It's time that they sacrifice for the greater good of improving the lives of those who need help in doing so.

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

I feel that our transportation options are limited for sure. The taxi services aren't reliable. Sometimes it takes up to an hour or more before they can get service to clients. Our bus system isn't available for 2nd or 3rd shift workers. Not only that, but as small as Frankfort is, there should be direct routes all over the city, but there aren't. In addition, bus stations aren't always marked, so it can be difficult for clients to know where the proper place is to catch the bus. Even when you consider that Frankfort really is a city on a river, there aren't any options to my knowledge to travel by riverboat. I'm not sure if increasing the amount of transportation options is what we need to do initially, rather than capitalize on what we do have. I would talk to people who use the bus system to find out how we could make improvements. I would talk to the workers to find out how it can be more efficient. I would also talk to the taxi companies to find out how more efficiency can be achieved. The only area where I would definitely like to see is riverboat transportation. As mentioned earlier, there are no such services in Frankfort and I believe this would be a way to bring more revenue to the city as well as to help expand transportation options.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

For now, I would say no, because too many regular people are living in depressed areas of town who are crying out to have an improvement to their lives. The money used to build a new building for City Hall could be used to improve areas in South Frankfort and Holmes Street by providing home improvement loans or incentives to small business owners to help get them started. The salt of the Earth people need to know that government will be there to offer them opportunities that can help them to experience an increase in the quality of life for them and their families. Even outside of this, I believe that Firehouse 1 should be given a new building or new location with a much higher priority than City Hall. The quarters are cramped and it doesn't provide the Firefighters with what they need. Before building a new City Hall, we need to prioritize and make sure we take care of grassroots folks along with first responders.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

If I could, I would change the fees charged on residential owners who wish to improve their property by building garages, decks, or rehabilitations. I find it offensive and greedy that the city is almost punishing homeowners for improving the quality of their dwellings. When homeowners make home improvements, they help to increase the property value, which in turn, improves the neighborhood as a whole. In Frankfort, we need to increase home ownership and if there are steps that we can take to help improve the numbers of homeowners, we need to support those efforts.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

I enjoyed the "On the Table" discussions that were held across the city. I believe this was a great way to incorporate citizens into the decision making process. I am a strong proponent of talking with the salt of the Earth folks to discover their perspectives and concerns over activities that would directly affect them. I also understand that many people become disengaged from government, because they feel that government is going to do what it wants to do without consulting citizens. I would sponsor town hall meetings in various parts of town and talk to the many grassroots stakeholders who are involved, not just those of privilege.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

I would hold town hall style meetings to speak to residents to get input on that project. I believe that too often, those with privilege are able to implement their ideas, because of finances and political ties. My ties are with the people. I believe that they would know best how a certain piece of infrastructure would affect them. In a representative democracy, those elected should focus on the issues of the majority of their constituents, who in many cases, don't have the political or economic capital to let their voices be heard. In addition, I would speak with others to decide on if this is a project that can be done on time and on budget without any additional burdens being placed upon taxpayers.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

I believe the first in these steps is to ensure that our first responders have everything they need in order to tackle 21st century issues that are necessary to provide the protection that we need. As of now, we have a problem with maintaining staff regardless of if we are referring to the police, fire, or EMS services. From my understanding, we need to hire more paramedics, but for some reason, this has eluded recent iterations of city government. The second step is to ensure that there are activities for kids to do, so that they can avoid being drawn into the dangers of drugs, alcohol, sex, or other vices available if they don't have sufficient activities in which they can participate. This would also give parents and families opportunities to become more engaged in the community.

Delvin Azofeifa

Since it takes a village to raise a child, more parental engagement means a closer knit community. The third thing that must be done is to attract jobs to Frankfort that will pay grown folks more than just “high school” wages. It’s difficult to raise a family on minimum wage. If parents have social and financial security, they are more likely to be engaged in the lives of their children.

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

For me, I believe that we should invest in some of our more financially depressed areas of Frankfort and offer those residents home improvement grants. We could also use those same funds to attract businesses to empty storefronts downtown, or to use those funds to encourage new business owners to emerge. In the big scheme of things, $1 million doesn’t seem like much, but for a homeowner living in a depressed part of town, or a new business owner, this money could be invaluable. I believe that for Frankfort to move in the right direction, we need leaders who will help struggling families who want to improve their lives to do so and who will also help small business owners to thrive.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in Hickory Hills and have done so since moving to Frankfort. When I decided to buy a house, initially my wife and I wanted to buy a duplex in South Frankfort on Coleman Ave. After the inspection came through, the owners decided that they didn’t want to fix anything. Since it was time sensitive for us to move, we chose to move into another house in Hickory Hills, because of the area and our budget. I have quite a few places in Frankfort where I spend my time; there are several restaurants where my family and I are regulars. I am a caregiver for a young man with autism and some of his favorite places that we go are to Salato, Cove Springs, and to just walk around the Capitol.

Buddy Bennett

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

Growing up in South Frankfort, I believe that 2018 South Frankfort is not as healthy as it should be. I am disheartened by the number of empty storefronts and businesses that have disappeared from Second Street. I believe that this can be changed. Re-energizing downtown can occur by incentivizing new businesses by waiving local taxes and licensing fees during the start-up of the business. This would attract new businesses, entrepreneurs, and those that care about the community to place their business downtown.

Does the City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

Absolutely. Frankfort's central location in the state makes it a prime candidate for such a conference center. By carefully reviewing the available feasibility studies (i.e. CityVision), this type of a business venture will attract opportunity that would draw significant economic interest and tourism. The tourism generated is desperately needed to revitalize downtown Frankfort.

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

Although Frankfort does have a transit system, it can always be improved. Providing more routes to accommodate those downtown to travel further throughout the county would bolster a sense of community and also provide access for those in the county to travel downtown.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

Absolutely, Frankfort needs a new City Hall. However, in a climate of limited resources and stretched government budgets, city leaders should be the first to sacrifice. A renovation of the current facility would make the most fiscal sense in this climate. We need to focus on attracting business and solid community members to Downtown primarily. Then providing a better City Hall would fall into place.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

Encouraging and supporting mixed-use development property is crucial to promoting Frankfort as a premier Kentucky city. The blend of residential, commercial, government, and entertainment uses has consistently provided positive economic and social impacts throughout cities in the United States. Applying this model to Frankfort would not only modernize our community, but attract new residents to our city.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision-making process in our town?

I am running for City Commissioner to give residents a voice in Frankfort. City work sessions provide a valuable outlet for community members to voice their concerns and issues. I look forward to listening in those settings. I want to go a step further. Local boards, associations, neighborhood groups, and businesses deserve to have their voice represented and heard. As City Commissioner, I will make every effort to hear to those concerns and bring them to the Commission.

Buddy Bennett

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

I have spent my career in the private sector. I believe this gives me a firm grasp on assessing the viability of potential projects throughout the city. It would be important to first fully research and exhaust all potential funding opportunities – whether that be federal, state or local.

It is also inherently important to maintain the character of our historic city while blending new opportunities that have arisen through a public private partnership. Historic Frankfort structures and locations should be treated with equal importance as any potential new development.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

(1) Residents. Bringing more people into the city as new residents would stimulate the economy and increase revenue through increased property taxes.

(2) Strict enforcement of building codes. By strictly enforcing those codes already in place, this would serve to increase property value and further entice new residents.

(3) Involvement in the Plaza redevelopment. We are at a crossroads. Frankfort residents have a unique opportunity to rebuild Frankfort's footprint. By encouraging mixed-use commercial and residential properties, this would further serve to stimulate the economy and create a vibrant downtown community.

Increasing the number of residents in the heart of our city is critical to the revitalization of Frankfort.

Buddy Bennett

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

As City Commissioner, my first step would be to seek the input of the residents. My hope would be to use this money on a larger-scale project as “seed money” to stimulate further development. Although Frankfort is a “small town,” the ability to use the funds for a major, large scale project would give us the unique opportunity to truly change the face of our community.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

Currently, I live in Cloverdale. I bought my house there to be close to family. But I was born and raised on West Third Street and spent my youth on the Kentucky River. I enjoy the Kentucky History Center, Benson Valley Marina, and often frequent the local eateries of downtown.

As the youngest of eight children, I spent my formidable years in South Frankfort. I learned to ride a bike, played baseball on the Capitol lawn before the trees were planted, and became the man I am today in this neighborhood. Frankfort deserves a Commissioner that wants the best for its residents, and is willing to listen and consider the opinions of each and every different group of people.

My heart is, and always will be, in South Frankfort. I would love the opportunity to speak to the South Frankfort Neighborhood Association, and to represent your interests at the City Commission. I look forward to working hand-in-hand with this integral part of the community to continue to make Frankfort a safe, secure, prosperous, and wonderful place to live.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

I think that downtown could be much healthier. Buildings need to be filled up and in order to do that, we have to be willing to make it a bit more enticing for new business to come in. Reduce some of the red tape.

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

answer pending

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

I feel that the city bus system is a viable system, but it can be improved. I think it should offer a more specific route. It shouldn't restrict the stops to just the bus stop areas. I feel that it should include stops in different apartment complexes around town. Ease of access would increase the use of the buses.

David Clark Fields

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

No. Why spend the money when the one that we have now could be fine with a few upgrades.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

If you want to encourage small business creation and growth, I would eliminate all fees to make it as financially easy as possible to open a new business or modify your home in a historic district. Then I would have a staff person periodically check on the locally owned business to see if the planning and zoning staff could offer help in the on-going process of opening their business. Then, if not the code, the process. It takes too long to get anything done. I don't know how you fix it though, maybe more frequent planning and zoning meetings.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

I will be a more hands on type of commissioner. I will make myself available in areas other than the commission meetings. I plan to have sit downs one evening per month at alternating sites, to allow citizens to speak to me one on one.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

By doing surveys and getting public opinions to determine the feasibility of the project. Much like what City Visions is doing right now.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

Firstly, our city is doing pretty well financially right now. We have $14,000,000 in our rainy-day fund. But, I would find ways to cut spending without eliminating jobs. Figure out a way for us to use the $14,000,000 in the rainy-day fund to make money. Why just let it sit there? Figure out a way to make Frankfort more attractive and increase our stagnant population (more citizens=more taxes collected)

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

I'd spend it on or invest it towards a project for our youth. There's not enough for them to do here in Frankfort. Invest in our future!

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in the Cove Spring area in what is formally known as the Montessori School. I am not in an actual neighborhood. We love the look of our home and its peaceful setting. I love spending time downtown, visiting the distilleries, walking in our parks, and eating at our mom and pop restaurants.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

Not enough business with doors open to attract the public, Streets are confusing for tourist, Parking will always be an issue. We need big events to offer the public, not just Races and Concert series.

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

NO.

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

Yes

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

NO

Shannon Griffith

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

Be compliant and consistent.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

To inform residents of events and the opportunity to voice concerns,

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

Only if it benefits the people and increases safety for the city.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

no answer given

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

I would invest the money into a structure that would help grow the community, My focus would be on a resource community center and or Business provide onsite child care for parents. If we all compete for the same money and resources let's make it one that benefits everyone

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

Downtown Logan St and Second St. We moved in the area 5 years ago to place my children in the independent school system. 2 years ago my street woke up to gun fire on Christmas Morning. I find it difficult when you are the only homeowner on the street. I love this town, the only home I know! Downtown is where I spend my time for Pleasure and Work.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

I do not believe it is healthy and successful. However, I do believe it is improving. I would continue the 100,000 signature grant for the Central Business District and the grants for downtown. I believe this is making a difference. I would seek a TIGER GRANT to go along with the Second Street TIGER GRANT for the Holmes Street corridor and marry this with other grants, funds and private sector dollars to redevelop this area. I would continue to focus on getting this area and the downtown designated by the Governor and US Government an area where private investors can take their profits from the sale of real estate and invest in this area with the possibility of not having to pay capital gains at the time of sale. I would continue to support the FIS System believing that the best possible school system will attract families and increase the population of downtown, I would support helping create the most vibrant uses possible for the Capital Plaza area as well as other downtown areas, and I will always utilize imagination and hard work to not be content with the status quo.

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

I do not believe it needs to be municipally owned, but I do believe the city and the county will play a role. We need meeting space and I hope it can be a part of a more significant development.

Robert Roach

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

I think we have one of the best city bus services at the lowest cost in the state, I believe we have enough.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

Not at this time. We need some modest improvements and to get a tenant for the space formerly occupied by FPB.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

I have two - make it less restrictive and actually apply it.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

Difficult to answer. I generally seek counsel from people I respect and generally am sent communication on issues from involved citizens. The challenge is to seek input from those that are not very involved yet may have the right viewpoint.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

I do a cost-benefit analysis on almost every decision I make. Something like this I would ask appropriate staff for a cost-benefit analysis and then analyze their data and then make a decision. Items in the analysis would be cost, number of people served, safety, quality of life, and many other factors.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

Let me preface this with making it clear that the city of Frankfort is on very firm financial footing. We are one of the strongest financially rated cities in KY.

Robert Roach

- a. Hire an efficiency firm to analyze our operations to save money.
- b. Hire an assistant city manager to implement the savings .
- c. As we are faced with numerous opportunities for transformational projects be a good steward and utilize as many sources of funding as possible.

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

I would use it to supplement the salaries of public and private school principals and superintendents and use it as a carrot to attract the very best. Leadership is the key to improving performance in education. We must have the best leaders in this challenging environment.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

Inverness. My best friend's grandfather died and suggested I buy his grandmother's house. Elkhorn Creek, Poor Richard's books, Healthease, City Hall, biking in the county, church, and Cove Springs.

E-mail: brentforfrankfort@yahoo.com

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

Downtown is and must be the face and the heart of our city. Ultimately, this will be an important gauge to the success we have in both our community's identity and economy. Although downtown is a beautiful place, it has struggled. That is not to take away from some great success stories. Over the last few years, there have been major renovations that have turned some dilapidated buildings into jewels and some new business that are great additions too. The city must enable and foster a more of this type of investment.

My focus over the next few years will comprise of three things.

1. First, we must establish a plan for the redevelopment of the Capital Plaza area and get those properties under local control. We need to find a mechanism to make that plan a reality. I believe the plan must contain the long term development of housing that brings in 500 to 1000 new residents downtown. The housing must include a variety of quality housing types (condominiums, apartments, townhomes) so we encourage people of different income and age levels to live there. Having more people live downtown is one key parameter to the success of businesses in a city; without that growth, it will be a struggle to transform the area. The plan should also contain buildings that have additional retail and restaurant space. The plan may also include the future construction of a conference center (see next answer.)

2. The zoning code for downtown must be changed to allow and specify the type of urban development we want and expect.

3. The transportation downtown needs to be studied and reconfigured. One-way streets are unneeded for traffic flow in most instances and hinder navigation. We need to extend Washington Street from Broadway Street to Mero Street. Pedestrian and bicycling need to be accommodated safely. Transit needs to be considered in every change we make.

4. The city must continue to provide incentives and in some cases assistance toward the rehabilitation of some of the historic buildings so they become financially viable.

Does the City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

Yes. As I've walked through neighborhoods over the last two months, this is the number one concern that I hear from citizens. I believe we need to first determine what kind of meeting space we need to accommodate graduations, conferences, and trade shows and then put a price tag to construct it. I had the recommendation from one person to look at the center they have in Hopkinsville as a possible model for ours. We then need to determine where those funds will come from and ultimately where it falls in our list of priorities. Unfortunately, there is not an endless well of money, so we need to create a master plan of capital construction that outlines projects that we will build over the next 10 years.

Bottom line is, yes, I think we need a conference center but we need to realize this is not something that will be built immediately.

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

I was one of the original founders and leaders of WalkBike Frankfort in 2007. I've worked as part of this organization ever since then because I see the need and desire to have better sidewalks and trails to connect our neighborhoods, schools, and parks. We've helped plan and advance projects like the Riverview Trail, US421 trail, Schenkel Lane sidewalks, and the upcoming KSU trail. We need a lot of new facilities but also need to focus on maintaining the sidewalks we have.

The transit system in Frankfort is very good. We have buses that cover all parts of our city and appears to be professionally managed. Although I am sure there is room for improvement, for a city our size, I believe that we are on solid footing.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

I would love to see our city hall, arguably the most important building of the city (beyond the state capitol) look and function with prominence. However, according to a recent study, this will cost over $8 million to rebuild; it is probably not a worthwhile expense considering all of our other needs. With that, the current building should be improved drastically to better serve citizens, people doing business with the city, and the staff. With the departure of the Plant Board from part of the building, I think some significant changes should happen in the near future and we should figure those changes into a long term Master Plan.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

Yes. As a member of EnvisionFranklinCounty, I have pushed for the overhaul of our zoning code. It is antiquated, piecemeal, difficult to understand, a hinderance to good development, and has resulted in poor quality all over our city. There is a more modern approach called Form Based Codes that is proven in cities all over the US. It allows different, compatible land uses to be built together while specifying the "form" of the buildings, streets, and exteriors that create great spaces for all of us to be.

Considering that this is quite different approach, and I realize not everyone will embrace it right away, it can be phased-in in different locations around the city. Form based codes are a key component to building the city that we are all proud of.

Brent Sweger

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

Involving and communicating with citizens in different aspects of city business is on the top of my list.

Over the last twenty years, I have seen countless blunders in the creation of projects and plans because the city has not reached out to citizens early in the process. A major example is the design of the Public Safety Building that was done without any input from citizens. Commissioners must understand that listening is important. There are good ideas that can surface or concerns that can be addressed if they are picked up early.

For large initiatives (like the convention center), meetings separate from the normal city commission meetings must be held. This allows for a focus on the topic while also allowing normal business to flow smoother at the commission meetings. Different formats to allow for discussion rather than testifying for or against also needs to be incorporated. When we civilly talk about things, rather than posture on a position, our understanding and perspectives can evolve.

One idea that I'd like to consider is a public budgeting exercise. This would be where part of the city budget is open and can be determined directly by the citizens.

Personally, I plan to hold monthly "open office" hours where folks can come talk with me about their concerns and ideas. I think this less formal type of setting will be more productive and comfortable than presenting them a full work session meeting with the full commission.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

This is a good question. Part of considering a new piece of infrastructure is looking at the cost to build.

The long term maintenance costs are also just as critical – where are the monies to maintain going to come from? This part is often ignored. From my observation, it seems that planning and budgeting for projects really has been done by the seat of the pants (short term thinking), depending on what the current batch of commissioners wants each year.

My approach is that we must create a Master Plan that looks at all our needs/wants and then we prioritize that list based on available financing for construction and maintenance. We also need to come up with a prioritized wish list that can be used for our grants administrator to apply for different federal, state, and private grant monies. Of course, the more we can leverage grants, the more we can do as a community.

New proposals should be considered during the Master Plan update cycle – every other year.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

I believe that currently the city is fairly good shape financially. However, there is a looming problem with the increasing Actuarially Required Contribution to the public pension fund that must be paid. I will not claim to have the solution to this issue, but it is something that needs to be addressed immediately.

Second, as I've discussed in previous answers, we must have a long-term master plan that is separate but feeds into the annual budget that the city develops. Having a long-term plan allows for systemically financing the bigger needs for emergency protection, transportation, parks, economic development, etc.

Finally, we need to focus on planning for redevelopment in infill areas. This includes areas such as Capital Plaza, specific locations along Holmes Street, and several large underutilized shopping centers.

By better reusing these properties, we can grow our tax base (revenue) and improve the aesthetics of those areas without increasing costs for community services.

Brent Sweger

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

Part of this money should be used for long term planning. Although not as sexy as building a new project, we currently don't have a vision of how our city should grow. The current Comp Plan does not create that vision for growth. I would also use it to create a zoning code that enables the type of growth we determine we want. Finally, I would use some of the grant to kick off the process for designing of our future convention center.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in South Frankfort and really enjoy the neighborhood. I chose to move here because of the great architecture, walkability, closeness of schools, and closeness to downtown (including my work.) The front porches and sidewalks make the neighborhood a place for me to meet and get to know my neighbors.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

NO, it's not! We need more people living downtown! We can do that by using the Plaza Dev. for mixed housing (residential & apartments) with some commercial and adding a multipurpose Convention Ctr. Housing: We have 3,800 state employees working within 3 blocks of the area in the development. Some come from Shelby, Owen, Anderson & Woodford Counties. We should encourage them to live here by providing housing to fit their needs

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

Definitely! The Convention Ctr. should be privately owned with some city/county/state and federal incentives. We must put the whole area on the PVA tax rolls!

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

With proper design, one purpose of the Tiger grant is to alleviate intersection problems at Main & Capital Ave., Bridge & Second St. and Taylor Ave.& Second

John R Sower

St., as well as providing crosswalk improvements. I am also open to changes suggested by CityVisions. The extension of Washington St. to Mero is a no brainer.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

YES, and I have one in mind.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

We have to comply with State and Federal mandates. If it is a local ordinance, there ought to be some built-in flexibility.

EX: If option A is not practical or extremely expensive then the property owner should have an option B or C or D.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

City Hall meetings should be televised live and the agenda should be printed in the State Journal beside the city FaceBook page or Web Site at least 3 days in advance. Polling software should always be a part of the planning process.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

A thorough feasibility study to show that it is cost effective.

John R Sower

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

We need more people who call Frankfort their hometown! During the last 20 years our population growth has averaged .1%!!! Putting ALL 7.6 acres of the Plaza and more land in private hands would be a big step in the right direction. Some of those 1,500 state employees in the new 5 story building are going to come from outside city limits; that will help. Finally we must partner where we can with schools to further improve our educational system and keep improving and promoting our city parks.

A strong education system is key but family recreation and parks are critical, too...a better quality of life will bring more people.

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

Build-to-suit a multipurpose convention center with breakout meeting rooms, a modern commercial kitchen and in partnership with the YMCA.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in North Frankfort in a family home built in 1907 by local craftsmen employed by my grandfather, John R. Sower. My father, Frank W. Sower, was born in the second floor guest bedroom. I bicycle to Farmers Market seasonally, walk around the neighborhood and enjoy activities at the First Methodist Church, First Presbyterian Church, the South Frankfort Presbyterian Church, the YMCA, the Grand Theater, VFW and the Paul Sawyer Library, all of which are within walking distance of my home.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

It's a mixed bag, we have had some success. We need to continue assisting entrepreneurs, especially for those wanting to develop existing storefronts and other locations in the urban core.

What is needed to support existing business and new business in a growing population is to increase demand for goods and services. Encouraging population growth needs to be the City Commissions top economic priority.

It's time for us to develop consensus over the Capitol Plaza Area, through open-ended community discussion. The Capital Plaza redevelopment project is a golden opportunity to create a mixed-use development that will encourage more people to move downtown, increasing demand for goods and services.

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

I think that the exact scope of the project should be up for public discussion; but yes I think that a City/County owned civic center/convention center is the way we should go. I believe that for this project to be worth the investment we must ensure that the new facility is flexible enough to serve a variety of purposes so that it provides an economic boost to the city.

Scott Tippet

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

For the existing population, yes, but more can be done to accommodate new markets like the bourbon tourist and the state government employee. I think we also need to keep a close eye on this as the population grows and changes and respond accordingly.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

The short answer is that we need to do something to modernize City Hall. A new or updated Fire Station is a must. We are currently looking at options and should choose the one that does the most long-term good at a reasonable price. I am reserving my final opinion until the experts have made their recommendations and given us our options.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

I would like to see a low-interest loan program created that would help low and middle-income homeowners meet the zoning code, especially in the historic zones of the city. This would help existing homeowners and encourage more citizens to move into the city, using existing housing stock.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision-making process in our town?

I think continuing and expanding public meetings, like the one held at T Boat Marine/Vatter Building, on a wide variety of topics is a good start. Personally, I make an effort to attend as many neighborhood association meetings as possible and am open to engaging citizens on social media, email and by phone as needed.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

This is a vastly complicated question; but here are a few things I would do. Ask, "Is it feasible? Is it needed? Is it financially possible? How would the people of Frankfort benefit?" If these questions answered positively, there are still a large number of things that would need to be done. Two of the biggest and, in my opinion, most important are: Getting public input and professional advice on key areas like funding, law, and engineering.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

Frankfort is in a strong financial position at the moment. Long term, we should encourage non-state government business to settle here so we are less dependent on state government. We must continually look for better, more efficient ways to spend tax dollars.

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

I would start the low-interest loan program that I talked about in #5. We must encourage home ownership and investment in the city.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in South Frankfort. There are a lot of places where I like to spend time, but Juniper Hills Golf Course and eating (sometimes too much) at the wide array of locally owned and operated restaurants in Frankfort are some of my favorites.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

At this time, I feel Frankfort has become stagnant and complacent which has placed our city in an unhealthy, non-successful and vulnerable situation in many ways. As a candidate for Commission, I believe Frankfort has great potential and holds great opportunity for growth if properly placed in the hands of leadership that isn't afraid to stretch the bar and willing to embrace innovative ideas. As a part of the City's leadership if elected, I would want a thorough evaluation of where our city stands at the moment, take advantage of our community input, construct a competitive and future focused strategic plan and set goals and deliverables our community can follow and that keeps our leadership engaged, accountable and on track for a Thriving Frankfort.

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

I believe Frankfort and Franklin County need a multi-functional self-sustaining event center that will bring a plethora of diverse events, entertainment and competitions to the City year around. I would have to evaluate where our city is financially and accessible man power to make a complete decision on a partnership. However, based on logistics I have seen I believe it would be a positive move for the center to be a partnership with the City and County as this helps with man power and financial obligations to get the project off the ground and operable. A successful center such as this should be self-sustaining in due time easing the stress on City and County. Another piece I would address to assure positive revenue and self-sustaining, is hiring a professional entertainment team to be the operating force of the daily usage operations. I feel having a professional team that understands event space thoroughly and abreast to year around events will keep the center fully occupied for a consistent flow of revenue traffic in Frankfort.

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

Grateful for the transportation we currently have however there is always room for improvement and growth. I have spoken with several residents that use our public transportation and have gathered additional routes would be useful, the access of bus stops for our physical challenged and placing bus stops closer to living areas to support and encourage riders. Our transportation is important and the means of quality of life for family's and to make bus stops more accessible helps us as a community to do our part in their quality of life.

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

The City Hall is a very old, non-attractive building and seems to be limited. I feel a new building would be a great expansion to welcome a more community welcoming and engaging atmosphere, a wider range of collaboration working with departments, and sets standards for the city growth and innovative ideas. Our city hall doesn't speak life into the city at this time nor does it say they are welcoming and thriving. Our City Hall needs to be Thriving and moving in the direction we would like to see Frankfort as a whole moving towards.

Katrisha Waldrige

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

One thing I would want to change is the red tape and timely process one has to matriculate through for economic development opportunities, etc. Given a proper evaluation with the appropriate departments, we would have to construct an effective, efficient and timely process to assure all legal guidelines are met and to assure code are met as standards are set to regulations. If surrounding areas can get a business approved, operational in a timely process, we as Frankfort should be able to do the same here in our City. We have to focus on Frankfort's future and integrity rather than personal issues that disable our city's growth and opportunity to THRIVE.

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

I believe the On the Table's hit this question right on the head. I attended at least 8 On the Table's and from each gathered great information, innovative ideas, viable concerns and met some impeccable people who hold Frankfort near and dear to their heart. I gathered Frankfort is tired of just being listened to and tolerated, they want to be heard and they want deliverables or at least some show of progress. They want a leadership who cares for Frankfort as they do, who will be engaged and who is for Residents and not personal gain or power. I think a community committee that would meet with the commission regularly to discuss issues, concerns or praise growth would be a way to keep the community's voice active and relevant. I also feel On the Tables could be held quarterly or twice a year to keep the community engaged and involved in decisions being made in the community. When holding the Commissioner Title, I understand I am offering myself to be your voice, to push your concerns for answers and to uphold the position with integrity even when I personally don't agree. I have a commitment to speak on the behalf of my residents, keep them informed and abreast to working progress and to work hard for Frankfort. Family First, Frankfort Focused: Let's Grow Together.

Katrishia Waldrige

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

In concern of new City infrastructure, I would evaluate the need, the usage, how this would affect or improve the quality of life for our Residents and surrounding areas and how our city would benefit from the plan and would the project be future focused. All departments in the city would be a part of the evaluation team to provide logical and accurate information from their areas that would affect them positively or negatively. This would be the proactive way to insure proper planning to avoid oversights that could lead to be costly for the city.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

Steps I would take for a firmer financial footing for the city would be first get an evaluation of budgets, past spending, year-end budgets and future spending. Secondly, I would evaluate our spending cost and access how we could have cut cost and planned for unseen cost. Thirdly, I would access a team of grant writers that their main focus would be consistently writing for grants to save our city money year around. A final step would be adhering to budget and all contract expenses. This will eliminate recalculating signed contracts in the mist of the contract that becomes very costly to the city and accrues unforeseen and frivolous spending. Always recalculating signed contracts can show weakness, instability and could be seen as a weak government. We must set our standards and stand our ground as we would in our own personal business. Our City's integrity isn't just Frankfort, Frankfort Residents, Frankfort leader but how we do business with our outside constituents as well, we must demand the same from our constituents when they agree to do business with our City.

Katrishia Waldrige

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

If given a $1 million grant I would cover the cost of the Splash pad in South Frankfort so that construction could start right away for our youth to have another summer option. Our youth are limited in options of involvement in our city and its time we focus on our children because they are our future and will be future residents. If we want people to stay, build families here we have to offer them reasons to stay and a quality life that is competitive to surrounding areas. The remaining money, I would either give it to parks and recreations to expand the waterpark or to the construction of another water park on the Westside or I would start an incentive program for entrepreneurs to support startups here in Frankfort and to increase Frankfort business options downtown. I would want the money to be used in a way that the city will see the money comeback as ongoing revenue.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in the Thistleton/Collins Lane area. I live there because of the convenience to the Westside, quick access to downtown, safety of being nestled in between two schools, and the environment is a quiet and a family welcoming neighborhood. Since my canvassing I have met several neighbors and we have decided to get together and plan a few neighborhood events this summer to support family and neighborhood engagement.

Do you think our main street/downtown is healthy and successful? If not, what would you do to change that?

I think you our Main Street has great potential, but has yet to realize it. We have many wonderful local businesses but but we need greater diversity and more options to provide the array of goods and services that our community requires to create a stronger, more viable Main Street. This is one of the main reasons I developed “The Market’ last year to build an event that drew people downtown for the express purpose to shop and eat, and encourage new businesses to establish and grow. Also, my hope was to draw new established businesses to Frankfort to experience our town and possible invest by opening a new business.

If elected I want to build on their previous work by developing a small business center in addition to our Main Street group. A few years ago three of the top 15 cities with the fastest growing startups in the nation were in Kentucky. The common thread among these groups is a dedicated position providing small business guidance. This center would provide help to local small businesses and new start ups to provide needed advice regarding any number of issues associated with establishing and maintaining a business in our downtown. My hope is that this center would further support our existing Downtown Main Street Program to continue the important work in the four target areas of design, promotion, organization and economic development.

Eric Whisman

Further to have viable local businesses we must have buildings renovated and equipped to house new tenants. New businesses always start in old building and we must continue to renovate and refine our historic core to provide the opportunity for new startups to build and grow. I will support continued and expanded funding for downtown investment to see our many under utilized properties able to reach their full potential. Frankfort has incredible small business owners, but many more of our people would like to start their own business. Each day I speak to people that say they want more eateries, breweries, and shopping downtown meaning we don't yet have what our community needs. We can do a better job to support our citizens to start new ventures and we need to more fully support Main Street to create a more vibrant downtown.

Does The City-County need a municipally owned or partnered conference center?

The demolition of the Frankfort Convention Center is truly a loss to our community for the size space that the center afforded us. That said, our community needs a space to hold special events and conferences as we have already lost local graduations and many small to mid size conferences that have been relocated to Lexington. I propose that we make better use of the facilities that we do have for the time being like those at Kentucky State University while we explore what our community can reasonably afford in a new facility. The former Convention Center was built as a basketball arena and functioned poorly as a venue for events of any scale. Since our State government chose to remove this facility, I would suggest our elected officials push for assistance from the State for a new facility when we know how it will be supported. A flexible conference center rather than arena could make financial sense for our community. Recently my research has shown that State Government owns the conference areas, restaurant and parking garage attached to the Capital Plaza Hotel, as well as the land on which it rests. I would like to explore several options for a new facility, but I believe one of the most viable options would be to built a new conference center addition to the Capital Plaza Hotel's existing facilities that could support our hotel and our downtown. This facility could be built on top of the current underground parking and work in tandem with the existing facility which the state already holds an invested interest. The former Convention Center as a stand alone facility was limited, but a new facility attached to the hotel complex that will remain from the former Capital Plaza may well serve the need of our community. While this is but one option, I would like to see creative new projects explored to see how we might benefit from them as a community.

How do you feel about the transportation options currently available in our city? Do we have enough options? If not, what will you do to increase those?

Frankfort's current transportation options are greatly underutilized and I believe under serve the needs of those who use them. In discussing the options available with members of the community I'm continually told that an entire day it must be reserved to go to medical appointments or the grocery. Many bus stops are poorly connected to the rest of our town and our topography makes access to some of these services difficult for the disabled. Anyone who has seen on of our busses is a witness the underutilized service. I can't help but think we can do better for our community.

I have always believed in the potential of mass transit and I think we took a step back by removing so many local transit rails that once connected our cities. While large urban cores like Chicago and New York have wonderful train lines, some other cities are now exploring reliable mass transportation. Just last year the Northern Kentucky/Cincinnati area installed a traditional trolley system like Frankfort once had at the turn of the last century. Smaller communities have reverted to subsidized ride-share programs that are better able to meet the specific needs of its customers.

Frankfort is a small town, but I believe our size creates opportunity for us to be innovative and set a new standard for what is possible. As such I would like to review our current transportation options and see what new options might be available to us that better use the financial and human resources we are able to provide to serve those that need them. I will always be an advocate of exploring mass transit systems from Frankfort to reconnect Lexington, Louisville, Cincinnati and beyond. While this idea is certainly a distance into the future, I believe we can better serve the needs of our local community now by reviewing our current system and creatively adjusting our services.

Eric Whisman

Does Frankfort need a new building or new location for City Hall?

Frankfort's City Hall was an affordable solution to a need for more space in 1955 as our city population nearly doubled from 1950-1960 with great growth of State Government. A series of three c1910 gas and service stations were renovated and became City Hall using funds available to the commission which has served the community for over 60 years. That facility has served many roles in those years, but the recent departure of the Plant Board gives us the opportunity to envision something new.

The current City Hall is in need of a renovation and our City needs a more attractive facility as the crowning jewel of the Capital City that meets the needs for our staff. For years our Frankfort Fire and EMS staff have begged for a facility that will provide a better and more safe work environment and I find the current building dated worn and in need of a new vision.

I would support a solution to develop a deal with Kentucky State University to reclaim the former Federal Courthouse/Library that was purchased from the City but yet to be paid for, to renovated into a new City Hall. The current City Hall could then be fully renovated to provide a larger Fire Station 1 that does not require relocation, or more land to be used for untaxed City purposes. This could be one but one option that I believe would be the most fiscally responsible solution for our city. However, I would fully support exploring other options that would allow us to meet the needs of the community, provide our Fire & EMS a place they so need and give us a respectable City Hall.

If you could change one thing in our zoning code, what would it be and why?

Our current Zoning code is antiquated and in need of an update. As a preservationist by trade, Frankfort is the only City in the state of Kentucky to my knowledge to have a system of base zoning for all districts types, be it commercial, residential, historic or otherwise. We need to modernize our systems and better plan for our future. Many of our zoning guidelines are good, but are poorly related to our citizens who have consistently had problems understanding our processes. In addition, our zoning poorly relates to the future that we all want. Currently, we have to make a special dispensation to allow residential units in commercial zones that were historically residential. We discriminate against our poorest property owners while providing few to no assistance for those that need it most. We push for code enforcement, fine properties and demolish building that still hold value, but refuse to make zoning changes that would allow those places to be renovated and again serve our community.

I have advocated for change for years that would help property owners get assistance to renovate properties and encourage investors. Far too often I hear complaints about our zoning and frustrations about our processed. This has to be change if we want to move forward. I would like to change many things zoning codes including the way we zone properties. I would like us to define city boundaries for infrastructure expansion like sewer connections, and designate underdeveloped parts of our city as priority areas for redevelopment like vacant former shopping centers that dot our landscape.

I am encouraged that the City is currently in process to hire a new planning director for our City. I hope we are able to find someone knowledgeable and skillful in helping us develop new tools and guidelines to assist our future development. As a community we need oversight to ensure that properties are maintained and appropriately developed, but

How do you plan to involve residents in the decision making process in our town?

As a citizen, I have worked for several years to provide input about the decisions made by our elected leadership and give my expertise in the process. One of the main reasons I chose to run for this office was due to my concern and great frustration in the exclusion and disregard for the publics opinion at City Hall.

The City Commission has long been closed to the public and there has been a lack of willingness by some departments to work with interested citizens. This must change and will be a main focus of mine if elected. We must open up City Hall to our citizens and draw upon the vast skill set afforded to us in the people of our town. I'm angered at each City Commission meeting I attend that the front door of the building is locked with no note to state that interested parties must enter through the rear door. This contributes to the perception among the community that they are removed from the local decision making process.

We have to include our people to foster new and innovative ideas that will help us prosper. I would propose to develop working groups of citizens to help guide all major local projects. I will demand that staff draw on the expertise of our community and regularly provide progress reports for projects with citizen reviews. I want to make local government more open, transparent and connected to the community by insisting that all public meetings be live-streamed to the community in multiple platforms, and not just to local cable subscribers after key decisions have already been made. I will insist on a new website that is regularly updated with pertinent information, where our citizens can find current agendas for all public meets so that they can attend and make comments about items of interest. We can easily do all of these things and modern technology allow us the opportunity to bring people into the process like never before. The desire of our public to serve is great and for too long we have been shut out of the process. By making a few key changes I believe our residents will feel more fulfilled and engaged in making decisions that will benefit us all.

If someone came to you with a proposal to build a new piece of public infrastructure in our city (road, bridge, etc.) how would you evaluate whether that project was worth implementing?

Each city project comes at great public expense and will be a decision I consider fully. The need in our community is great and we have to be strategic in funding projects that make the largest impact for the least cost. Our town has done a good job of developing strategic plans that engaged citizens but languish on the shelves of City Hall rather than guiding our actions. These plans should drive our efforts and be developed so to envision a future Frankfort with goals set for 5, 10, 25 and 50 years from now.

If elected I will to push to hold a series of Commission meetings to be listening sessions that allow the community to voice their needs and desires in a public forum. I want to use this input to develop a list of infrastructure projects that can then be used to update our community comprehensive plan. In addition, I would like to develop a scale that goes beyond the current fiscal impact statement that will rate projects according to the communities need and our ability to institute them. By developing this system, I would hope that all future projects might be treated in the same fashion for consideration and judged on a scale comparable to others in the community.

Each year the City Commission set goals that seem to drive the efforts of staff with little regard to our many community plans. This makes for a continually shifting focus that does nothing toward accomplishing long range goals. Instead it creates a reactionary management plan that shorts of us of potentially greater projects. Many times Frankfort has created acceptable fixes to problems that might benefit from larger scale planning and more targeted projects.

Communities across the country are on the verge of financial collapse because of their lack of planning and overbuilding of public infrastructure that municipalities can never afford to maintain. While it's terrific that our town is the recipient of a TIGER grant to provide much needed infrastructure repairs to Second Street, those resources are becoming ever more scarce. We have to think long term and be more strategic in our actions to repair, build and maintain our public infrastructure so that we do not loose our ability to provide the other amenities that we desire for our community. Therefore, each project that comes before the City Commission must be thoughtfully reviewed and compared to our long range plans before taking action.

If elected, what three steps would you take to put our city on a firmer financial footing?

The City of Frankfort has strong financial resources but we must use those wisely. In the 1970s a contract was negotiated with the State government to provide $100,000 a year to the City in lieu of taxes for their vast land holdings and use of local municipal services like Fire & EMS, policing and more. That amount has not been increased in more than 40 years and if adjusted for inflation should be more than $400,000 today. While we are fortunate to be the home of state government, we must require that they pay their fair share or divest of property and other holdings in the City. We can have successful negotiations, but the Commission must be firm and make educated demands. While taxes on state worker's income is a primary revenue generator for our city, we all know those positions are being cut as will the revenues to the city. We must plan for this change now. The state should contribute their fair share to Frankfort and we must regularly review their contribution amount. By researching the physical costs of hosting state government we can ensure that our City is fairly compensated for the services we provide and remain on sound financial grounds into the future.

A second primary revenue stream for the City is local property taxes. While these revenues have remained relatively consistent for years, we have many areas of the city that are suffering from a lack of investment which will eventually dwindle property tax revenues. We need to use all resources available to us and provide incentives to encourage the renovation of properties throughout the City. Two years ago I brought in a Louisville group to invest in Frankfort. They took on several projects and completed renovations of the former Bridgeport school which was planned to be low income elderly housing, as well as nine housing units in South Frankfort. Many of the houses were facing demolition and most were vacant. Their investment has returned these properties to use by the community, providing needed houses that is modern and safe, and their investment has meant the increased property taxes for formerly low-value parcels. This type of investment is needed all over the city to renovate buildings, reinvigorate community, and return needed property taxes. Many federal and state incentives can be used to do this work at no cost to our city. We must make these resources more readily available to those wishing to invest in Frankfort and further provide additional local incentives as necessary. By doing so, we can stabilize local property values and in return our city will recoup long term revenues that help provide for a more stable financial future.

Finally, we need to encourage more local businesses development. Every community needs shopping and services, but those that are locally owned and operated return far more local investment than those owned by out of town parties. Recently the announcement of the closure of PicPac shocked the community. I jumped into action and helped the owner find a way forward to remain open and provide a much needed service to the community. As an example, this locally owned and operated grocery store returns great investment to the community in the form of property taxes, payroll taxes, and local employment, not to mention sales of locally produced goods that keeps more of the customer's money in our town. These dollars go much farther than those spent at a national retailer and help establish a stronger local economy.

As I mentioned before, I want to invest in our community first to build resources for small local businesses like PicPac to help them thrive. In 2017, I established "The Market" as a community outreach tool for the local Odd Fellows. But this effort was multi-faceted effort intended to also help support local businesses and encourage local makers to build a business. Out of this effort, more than 20 local business licenses were established and I hope that many of them might grow to become future brick & mortar stores. This fostering of local business is a way to develop our current future businesses that will support our community, drive shopping and tourism, and help build a stronger local economy. Supporting local first will generate many returns to the city, add local jobs, building community wealth and generate greater dividends to the city.

By working to support local businesses, investing in the people and the infrastructure of our town (including our housing stock and commercial buildings) and demanding our fair share from those that use our precious resources, we will create a more stable future where our City finances are able to better perform for us all.

If you received a $1 million grant to use for the city any way you wanted, what would you do with it and why?

If I had a million dollars, we could do so much! While I have many potential projects, I would first reference the needs of our community and see where the investment would most effectively perform based on the reviews I stated in a previous question. However, if I had to choose a way to spend the cash, I would like to divide among several projects. First, I would give the largest amount to our local schools. We do a great disservice by not adequately investing in our future generations. I would set aside these funds to allow every child in our school system better access to education and to choose an educational experience in a field of their interest outside of our community. By exposing our children to new ideas beyond the traditional classroom, we are expanding their horizons and allowing them to dream. I would hope this would encourage them to have new ideas and learn how they can be part of the greater world.

I am a product of the local school system and was afforded few opportunities in my public education to experience the world that I know would have benefited so many of my classmates. Thanks to several teachers interest in my abilities, I am now able to run for the City Commission and make a measurable impact for my community. I would hope this financial investment in our children would return the same results, helping kids realize their future potential and giving them insights to how they might live their lives. I would hope that this investment would return benefits to our community within their lifetime as they build lives in Frankfort and beyond.

From the remaining, I would establish as a fund for the citizens of Frankfort to choose how to spend. I think our community could greatly benefit from a designated amount of money set aside by the City Commission for use by our citizens in funding a project of their choice. This would encourage citizen participation and creativity which I think all of us would benefit from the results.

What neighborhood do you live in? Why? Where are your favorite places to spend time in our town?

I live in a historic fixer upper the heart of downtown and wouldn't have it any other way! Though I grew up in rural Franklin County in the Bald Knob area, I have always enjoyed the wonderful social environment of Downtown. Many of my efforts are focused on our community and my proximity to everything within walking distance allows me to do and experience more. My home has become a center for many friends to enjoy what Frankfort has to offer and I often find myself talking with tourists giving local tips in my walks from one place to the next. I love spending time in our downtown core but I love all of our community.

As a native of Frankfort and now Vice-Chair of the Franklin County Trust for Historic Preservation, I am familiar with nearly every part of our county and enjoy each section for its history, natural beauty and friendly people. I enjoy spending much of my free time helping promoting our town, be it giving tours of downtown or on the river, developing new events, or volunteering. I have traveled many places and lived in larger cities, but Frankfort holds a special place in my heart as my hometown and as a place that molded my views of the world. It has given me so much and I feel called to give back. I am happy to try to do so by running for City Commission and I hope to be a conduit to help make the changes that will benefit our town and our people.
